SAVE YOUR FRUIT.

It Can be Done, and Here is the Proof.

To Whom it May Concern—Mr. W. B. Callahan, of the firm of and business manager for Messrs. Tatum, Sims &amp; Co., proprietors of the Alta Fruit Preservative, is an honorable, reliable gentleman, who would not conduct a fraudulent business. We have known him for years, and he is worthy the confidence of all persons.

P. E. BARNETT, Tax Assessor.

J. K. EDWARDS, Judge Probate.

J. R. WILLIAMS, Tax Collector.

O. ALBRIGHT, Sheriff.

W. C. ROBINSON, Clerk County Ct.

The following is from the Opelika Observer, May 18, '82: "We have satisfied ourselves beyond all doubt that the Alta Preservative is all that is claimed for it. We will never advise our readers to patronize a worthless article. Its claims to merit are based on nothing but truth. The proprietors are honorable, reliable gentlemen, and there is nothing fraudulent about their business." Let the doubting write to the Observer or any of the above gentlemen.

ONE DOLLAR'S worth of ingredients used in making the Preservative will save for longer than twelve months Ten Bushels of fruit, grapes, green corn, tomatoes, etc., and ten cents' worth of ingredients will permanently prevent sourness, mould and fermentation in Twenty Gallons of syrups, catsups, sauces, preserves, etc. Fruits, etc., are not to be cut, peeled, heated or canned by our method, and everything retains its natural taste and quality, just as grown. We warrant our Preparation to give satisfactory results, and we will refund the purchase money if a failure occurs when used as directed. No trouble whatever to use.

This season we are selling recipes to make our preparation at only One Dollar, where we have no agents on receipt of price we will forward our recipes. Address, mentioning this paper in writing, TATUM, SIMS &amp; CO., Opelika, Ala.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

LARGE ATTENDANCE—ABLE AND PATRI-OTIC SPEECHES—WISDOM-INATIONS.

Hon. R. N. Rhodes and Col. G. T. Abernathy

Nominated.

The County Convention of the true Democracy, held at the Court House, last Saturday, as may be seen from the proceedings published in full, was a well attended harmonious and earnest assembly of the simon-pure Democracy of Montgomery county. We commend a careful perusal of the proceeding to every citizen who wishes to align himself with the true principles of Democracy. Of the candidates, who are so well-known to every voter in the county, we need hardly speak, for standing as they do upon the platform promulgated by the convention of July 11, they will not fail to command the hearty support of every man who desires the permanent success and welfare of his party.

In the absence of Mr. H. C. Merritt, Chairman of the County Executive Committee, Capt. Polk G.

Johnson called the convention to order, stating that it was called for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Legislature on the State Credit platform, and who would take the flag of State Credit and bear it throughout the contest.

He expressed his gratification at the strength of the delegations from the different districts present. There were yet many men in the county who were in earnest in their Democracy, and who would see that it triumphed.

Dr. N. L. Northington was on motion made Temporary Chairman.

On taking the stand he said that the convention had assembled for no new purpose, and with no new notions—the same principles that had ever guided Democracy guided him and his colleagues; they were here to proclaim the same principles and put forth the same emanations that had guided and characterized Democracy for years, and to condemn anything that savored of repudiation. The same old Democratic banner bearing equal and exact justice to all and the maintenance of public faith floated over them.

Messrs. E. C. Campbell and W. O.

Barnes were made Secretaries of the meeting.

Gen. R. H. Burney moved that a committee of three on permanent organization and five on credentials and basis of representation be appointed. The chair appointed on credentials and basis of representation: Messrs. H. H. Lorton, E. Y.

Johnson, J. R. Usery, Dr. Payne,

O. M. Blackburn. On organization:

Gen. Burney, Messrs. E. B. Ross and T. F. Northington.

Loud and prolonged calls were made for Col. Bailey, who came forward and delivered a well-timed, exhaustive and convincing speech, of which the following is a brief synopsis:

He was glad that he again had an opportunity to speak to the people of Montgomery county, among whom his whole life had been spent, and who knew him better than any people on earth. Elsewhere his character had been assailed, and bargain and intrigue had been the order of the day, but here, where he was known, and where he had been raised, no such sinister and unwholesome motives were charged to him. He would advocate to-day, and as long as he lived, those principles; he had defeated him for the Senate two years before, but he believed they pointed out the wisest and best course for Tennessee, and he would advocate because of his deep conviction that they were the principles that ought to govern the State; he did it, and his political head was demanded, as he anticipated it might be.

The question had produced divisions and discussions in the party; it was destructive to the State and her best interests, by repelling capital and immigration, and thousands of her best men, the bone and sinew of the State, had been seized with disaffection and had sought homes elsewhere, and other States received the benefit of their experience and their labor. He wanted of proper action on the question had paralyzed every industry and dwarfed every enterprise of the State. Fixed laws govern the universe, and all breaches brought certain punishment, and a violation of the laws controlling political and social life were just as sure to call down condemnation on the offender.

Assume that the State owed the debtor, and few well-informed men would deny it. Tennessee had made these bonds and sent them out bearing the proud seal of the State, and playing her faith and honor to their payment. Every man, Republican or Democrat, of all property, all of individual wealth, all of virtue, all of honor in the State were pledged alike for the payment of the two bonds, whether they were owned by Mrs. Reed, by the poor widow of our own county, by the farmer, or by the banker in

New York and London. How have we kept that faith? What did Democracy say in 1867? That it was for its self interest on the best terms, to be obtained after negotiation with the creditors of the State.

That settlement has been made, not by Democrats, not by Republicans, but by the State in its sovereign capacity acting through its Legislature which embraced men of all parties.

It was made a law which no party can repeal, and it binds the conscience and action of every man. The Legislature may refuse to levy a tax to carry out its provisions, but it cannot repeal it.

It stands and it will stand forever, an agreement bearing the impress of the great seal of the State. It was now being executed, more than $7,- 000,000 having been funded. What are we going to do about it? He believed the people of Tennessee would do right, unless misled by false leaders and by passion. He spoke to the intelligence and conscience of his hearers. After ten years of agitation and strife over the question we had drawn upon ourselves the suspicion and the contempt of all. Tennessee was lagging behind her sister States in all development and advancement because she had listened to the advice of those who declared she was too poor to pay the debt. For this she had suffered severely, but she now had an opportunity to redeem her equities and remit more than $11,000,000 of her indebtedness and
